

Which university PGC did you go to?

How would you rate your satisfaction with the PGC?

How would you rate your satisfaction with the therapist you had?

How would you rate their knowledge of English?

How satisfied are you with the methods your therapist used?

How much would you say the PGC helped you?

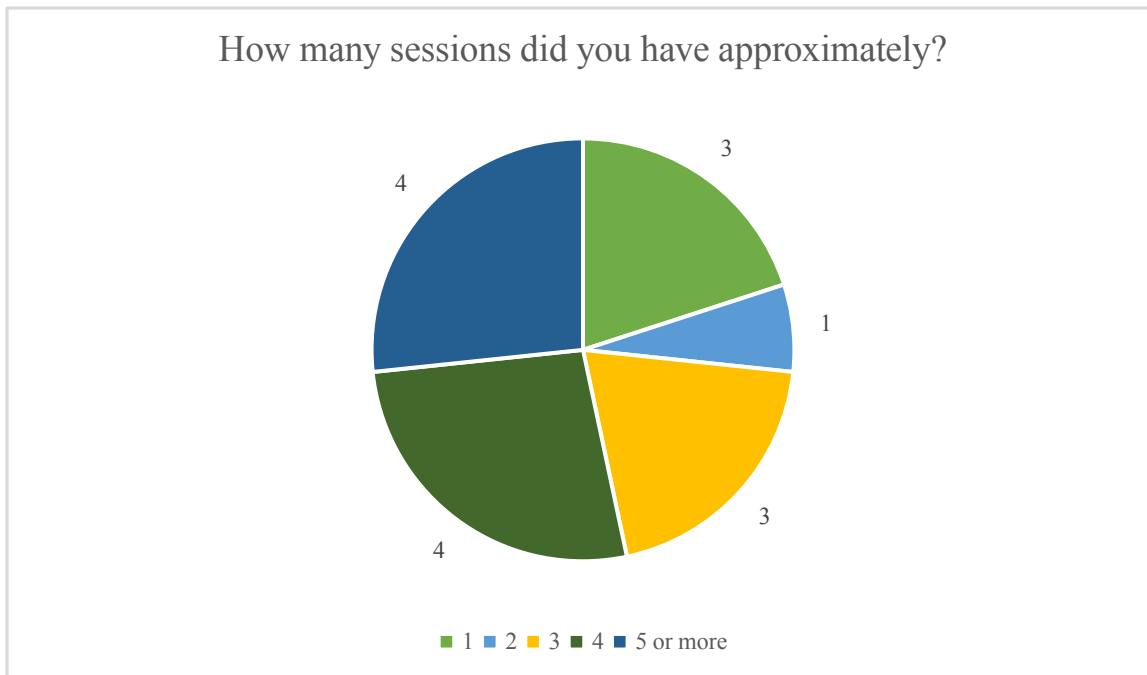

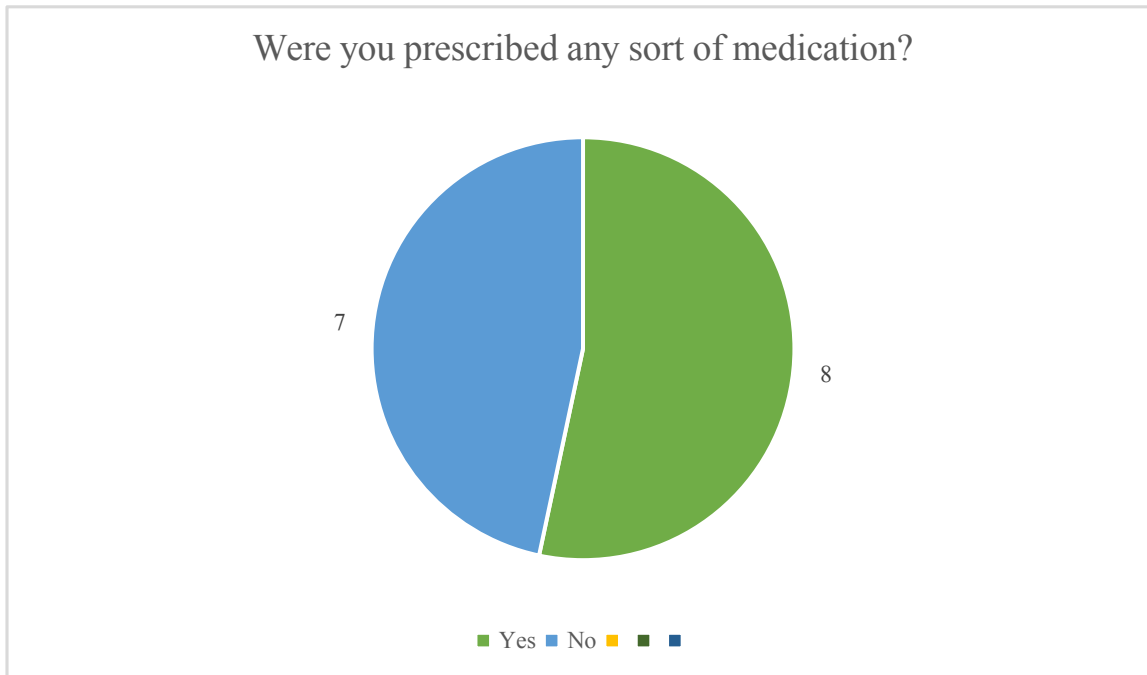

Were you officially diagnosed with any disorder?

■ Yes ■ No ■ ■ ■

If you were diagnosed, after how many sessions did it happen?

1 Response: 2 sessions.

If it was only one, why?

2 did not feel like it is useful

1 had time issues

1 “disregard for how my worldview shaped my thinking”

1 “the therapist never had my time”

Please if you can write in detail about your experience there whether good or bad, it would be greatly helpful.

- It was my first trial in therapy and it was good for me, it made me less stress and anxious than i was but I wasn't recovered completely
- It was a place to talk for me but I felt like there wasn't enough comfort and self reflecting and relishing stuff weren't easy during this procedure I was given some homework's but they weren't checked in the next sessions and I think I never learnt what really the problem was
- They acted like they didn't know what they were doing... The psychologist on duty were very unfriendly.
- Very weak english, inexperienced, difficulty to understand what I'm saying due to language barrier, the session as a while was uncomfortable.
- They prescribed me meds after only around 3 sessions instead of working towards the problem.
- Nobody can speak English every one speak Turkish
- After work into the place, the lady took my school id card, behave as if she doesnt have my time. After a while I got up and left
